Himformatics LLC

Chris Bogiages is an insightful information technology (IT) healthcare consultant who has been serving clients for more than 30 years with creativity, uncommon sense and integrity. A founding partner of Himformatics, Chris helps clients assess, develop and implement the IT plans and teams to support business goals. Clients have come to rely on his instincts, candor and personalized leadership, as well as his ability to involve the right people and answer the right questions.

Throughout his career, he has developed strategic IT plans and tactical assessments for more than 70 organizations, ranging from academic medical teaching facilities to children's hospitals to rural community hospitals. Chris also has served as an interim CIO at a large tertiary medical center, directed large-scale system implementations and worked closely with most of the leading healthcare IT vendors.

Before Himformatics, Chris was a vice president at First Consulting Group (now CSC), and began his career at Andersen Consulting (now Accenture). Over the years, he has developed a reputation for being clever, resourceful and willing to coach others in their career development.

Chris earned a bachelor's degree and MBA from the University of Florida. He is a Fellow with the American College of Healthcare Executives. He also has served as a guest lecturer for graduate health programs at the University of Alabama – Birmingham and Mercer University, and has conducted educational sessions and workshops at regional industry seminars and professional association conferences, including the Healthcare Financial Management Association (HFMA), Healthcare Information and Management Systems Society (HIMSS), and Premier, Inc.

About Himformatics Himformatics harnesses IT and business expertise to help clients deliver healthcare in a way that makes a difference.
